

We have over 30 years experience working with Care Leavers in Birmingham.

Through delivering a quality housing related support service (assessed as Level A in terms of quality) the service aims to address the inequalities faced by Care Leavers in Birmingham. Across three projects, we meet the needs of young people living in our supported housing schemes by providing a support service that encompasses the following support:

- Access to medical healthcare
- Access to education, employment and training
- Access to longer term suitable accommodation.

The service takes a person-centred approach to discovering needs and aspirations of the young person and then provides a wraparound support service relying on key workers to identify external services that can enhance the core housing related support service that is delivered.
